Leading Special Education at the School Site

Lansing, Michigan – May 19

Where: Lansing Community College, West Campus Room M119-122
5708 Cornerstone Drive, Lansing, MI 48917

What: CEC’s most sought-after workshop, bringing one of the leading experts in special education to help you with a major issue facing the field.

Leading Special Education at the School Site
Friday, May 19, 2017 • 9:00 a.m.-3:30 p.m. • Leader: David F. Bateman, Ph.D.

As a school administrator, you are expected to be an expert on everything. You're judged on the achievements of your students, the quality of your teachers, the level of decorum in your building, and the dropout rate of your students.

The one thread that runs through all of these issues is providing high quality special education services to children who come to school with learning, mental, social, emotional, and/or physical disabilities.

Get the information you need to be an effective leader from David Bateman, Ph.D., who literally wrote the book on leadership at the school site. This full-day workshop will include in-depth discussions around special education law and regulations, eligibility processes and decisions, discipline and school-wide behavior programs, and accountability and data-informed decision making.

Join your colleagues in the Lower Peninsula as Dr. Bateman steers you through the maze of issues in your daily work related to educating children with disabilities.

David F. Bateman, Ph.D. is a professor of special education at Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania and a former due process hearing officer for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

A copy of the presenter’s best-selling book and lunch are included in your workshop registration.

Plus, you’ll earn while you learn, and receive 6 Professional Development Hours (PDHs)!
